Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002

24.0 Introduction

Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 or more commonly known as PMLA 2002 (an abbreviation for Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002) came into force w.e.f 1st July 2005. It extends to the whole of India. It aims at combating channellising of money into illegal activities, provides for attachment and seizure of property and records, stringent punishment, including rigorous imprisonment of upto 10 years and fine. The Act is in line with India’s commitment to fight all forms of economic crimes.

The preamble to the Act provides that it aims to prevent money-laundering and to provide for confiscation of property derived from, or involved in, money-laundering and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. The legislation is the result of the Political Declaration and Global Programme of Action, annexed to the resolution S-17/2 which was adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations at its 17th special session on 23rd February, 1990 and the Political Declaration adopted by the Special Session of the United Nations General Assembly held on 8th – 10th June, 1998 calling upon the Member States to adopt national money-laundering legislation and program. The legislation is very recent and is essential provisions have been discussed herein below. PMLA will certainly have a far reaching impact. The fact that such legislation has been drafted, passed and notified indicates the desire of the system to become neat and clean.

In order to further strengthen the existing legal framework and to effectively combat money laudering, terror financing and cross-border economic offences, an Amendment Act, 2009 was passed by the Parliament which was effective from 1st June, 2009. The new law seeks to check use of black money for financing terror activities. Financial intermediaries like full-fledged money changers, money transfer service providers and credit card operators have also been brought under the ambit of The Prevention of Money-Laundering Act. Consequently, these intermediaries, as also casinos, have been brought under the reporting regime of the enforcement authorities. It also checks the misuse of promissory notes by FIIIs, who would now be required to furnish all details of their source. The new law would check misuse of “proceeds of crime” be it from sale of banned narcotic substances or breach of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act. The passage of the Prevention of Money Laundering (Amendment), 2009 have enabled India’s entry into Financial Action Task Force (FATF), an inter-governmental body that has the mandate to combat money laundering and terrorist financing.

24.10 Conclusion

Does money laundering mean siphoning of fund. No, not just siphoning of fund, it actually refers to a whole process or an entire system by which money is actually generated from serious crimes as listed above, but they are given such shape (by disguising its origin into a series of transactions) that it looks like it has originated from legitimate sources. The point to note is that the volume of money generated by above activities is also very huge. But the fact remains how does it effect us. The answer lies in observing the continuous increase in terrorist or militant or other criminal activities worldwide (wide spreading global network of terrorists and others who deal in above crimes) and we cannot be ignorant to the fact that such activities need huge funding and they generate large volume of money. To curb the criminal activities, one needs to follow and hit at this generation and utilization of revenue. PLMA, 2002 aims to achieve this. So, money laundering is simply giving shape to the financial structure required and generated from serious crimes as listed above. For example, a criminal may deposit all his money into a bank account or purchase a fixed deposit or even buy a property. But sudden appearance of such a transaction, invites the attraction of one and all. Hence he may resort to money laundering by making cash purchases from the market and then selling the goods in the legal manner and at the end create an impression that the money has come from the sales and not from the criminal activities. So the money has been disguised by entering into a series of transactions and its origin now looks legitimate. India has followed the recommendations of FATF and criminalized money laundering. FATF refers to the Financial Action Task Force which is an international government body. It was formed by the G7 at Paris in the year 1989. Asia Pacific Group (APG) is the regional body of FATF and India is also an active participant in APG deliberations. Financial Intelligence Unit of India (FIU_IND) was also set up at New Delhi with an objective to coordinate and strengthen the collection and sharing of financial intelligence through an effective national, regional and global network to combat money laundering and all the related crimes. The subject is a major issue of concern at the international level and all sectors of business across the globe, like insurance, retail, real-estate, stock –market, entertainment – just to name a few are getting flooded with money and more money and at this stage we can certainly doubt, that it might be a case of money – laundering. Hence the need, significance and scope of operation of Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002. So it becomes, interesting now.
