Question 4

What do you understand by 'Group conflicts'? How shall these be managed effectively? Explain.

Answer

Group conflict: Group conflict is an 'express struggle' between two inter-dependent parties who perceive incompatible goals, scarce resources and interference from the other party in achieving their goals. There are two aspects in relation to conflict

1. Expression: The two sides must communicate/express about the problem for there to be conflict.

2. Perception: Conflict evolves perceptions in the two sides may only perceive that their goals, resources, and interference are incompatible with each other's.

Managing conflicts: The climate in which conflict is managed is important. It is essential to plan communications to foster a supportive climate, marked by emphasis on

(i) Presenting ideas or options

(ii) Problem orientation- focusing attention the task

(iii) Spontaneity - Communicating openly and honestly
(iv) Empathy - understanding another person's thoughts.
(v) Equality - asking for opinions
(vi) Willing to listen to the ideas of others.

Successfully managed conflicts can be constructive and can strengthen relationships in an organisation.

Question 5

Explain Consensus Building.

Answer

Consensus Building: Consensus means overwhelming agreement. Most consensus building efforts set out to achieve unanimity. The key indicator of whether or not a consensus has been reached is that everyone agrees with the final proposal and it is important that consensus be the product of a good-faith effort to meet the interests of all stakeholders. Thus, consensus requires that someone frame a proposal after listening carefully to everyone's interests. Before the parties in a consensus building process come together, mediators (or facilitators) can play an important part in helping to identify the right participants, assist them in setting an agenda and clarifying the ground rules by which they will operate, and persuading noncompliant parties to participate.

◆ Problem-Solving Orientation - It is important to be constructive and maintain a problem-solving orientation, even in the face of strong differences and personal antagonism. It is in every participant's best interest to behave in a fashion they would like others to follow. Concerns or disagreement should be expressed in an unconditionally constructive manner.

◆ Engage in Active Listening - Participants in every consensus building process should be encouraged (indeed, instructed, if necessary) to engage in what is known as active listening a procedure for checking to be sure that communications are being heard as intended.

◆ Disagree Without Being Disagreeable - Participants in every consensus building process should be instructed to "disagree without being disagreeable." This dictum should probably be included in the group's written ground rules.

◆ Strive for the Greatest Degree of Transparency Possible - To the greatest extent possible, consensus building processes should be transparent. That is, the group's mandate, its agenda and ground rules, the list of participants and the groups or interests they are representing, the proposals they are considering, the decision rules they have adopted, their finances, and their final report should, at an appropriate time, be open to scrutiny by anyone affected by the group's recommendations.

◆ Strive to Invent Options for Mutual Gain - The goal of a consensus building process ought to be to create as much value as possible and to ensure that whatever value is created be divided in ways that take account of all relevant considerations. The key to creating value is to invent options for mutual gain.

Question 6

"Once the process of consensus building has begun, mediators try to assist the parties in their efforts to generate a creative resolution of differences". Examine this statement and also state in brief the process which should be followed by mediators to resolve the differences between the parties.

Answer

Process which should be followed by mediators to resolve the differences between the parties- Efforts which help to generate a creative resolution are:

(i) Problem – solving orientation – it is important to be constructive and maintain a problem solving orientation, even in the face of strong differences and personal antagonism. It is in every participant's best interest to behave in a fashion, they would like others to follow. Concerns or disagreement should be expressed in an unconditionally constructive manner.

(ii) Engage in active listening – Participants in every consensus building process should be encouraged (indeed, instructed, if necessary) to engage in what is known as active listening.

(iii) Disagree without being disagreeable – Participants in every consensus building process should be instructed to ‘disagree without being disagreeable’.

(iv) Strive for the greatest degree of transparency possible – To the greatest extent possible, consensus building process should be transparent. That is, the group's mandate, its agenda and ground rules, the list of participants and the groups or interests they are representing, the proposals they are considering, the decision rules they have adopted, their finances and their final report should, at an appropriate time, be open to scrutiny by anyone affected by the group's recommendations.

(v) Strive to invent options for mutual gain – The goals of a consensus building process ought to be to create as much value as possible and to ensure that whatever value is created be divided in ways that take account of all relevant considerations. The key to creating value is to invent options for mutual gain.

come to a mutually accepted solutions; whether it is with an employer, family member or business partner. It can be said that negotiation is a common way of settling things in business.

Steps in the negotiation process
1. Preparing
2. Arguing
3. Signaling
4. Packaging
5. Bargaining
6. Closing and arguing

Question 8

Explain the concept of “Negotiation”. What are its techniques?

Answer

Negotiation: Negotiation occurs when two or more parties either individuals or groups discuss specific proposals in order to find a mutually acceptable agreement. Whether it is with an employer, family member or business associate, we all negotiate for things each day like higher salary, letter service or solving a dispute with a co worker or family member. Negotiation is a common way of settling conflicts in business. When handled skillfully, negotiation can improve the position of one or even both but when poorly handled; it can leave a problem still unsolved and perhaps worse than before.

Techniques for Negotiation:
(a) Spiraling agreements: Begin by reaching a minimums agreement even though it is not related to the objectives and build, hit by hit, on this first agreement.
(b) Changing of position: Formulate the proposals in a different way, without changing the final result.
(c) Gathering information: Ask for information from the other party to clarify their position
(d) Making the cake bigger: Offer alternatives that may be agreeable to the other party, without changing the terms.
(e) Commitments: Formalize agreements orally and in writing before ending the negotiation.

Question 9

List out the characteristics of group personality under Group Dynamics.

Answer

Characteristics of Group Personality: Following are the characteristics of group personality:
(a) Spirit of Conformity: Individual members soon come to realize that in order to gain recognition, admiration and respect from others they have to achieve a spirit of conformity. Our beliefs, opinions, and actions are influenced more by group opinion than by an individual’s opinion, even if it is an expert’s opinion.

(b) Respect for group values: Any working group is likely to maintain certain values and ideals which make it different from others. In order to deal effectively with a group we must understand its values which will guide us in foreseeing its programmes and actions.

(c) Resistance to change: It has been observed that a group generally does not take kindly to social changes. On the other hand the group may bring about its own changes, whether by dictation of its leader or by consensus. The degree to which a group resists change serves as an important index of its personality. It helps us in dealing with it efficiently.

(d) Group prejudice: Just as hardly any individual is free from prejudice, groups have their own clearly evident prejudices. It is a different matter that the individual members may not admit their prejudiced attitude to other’s race, religion, nationality etc. But the fact is that the individual’s prejudices get further intensified while coming in contact with other members of the group holding similar prejudices.

(e) Collective power: It need not be said that groups are always more powerful than individuals, how so ever influential the individual may be. That is why individuals may find it difficult to speak out their minds in groups. There is always the risk of the one-against-many situation cropping up.

Exercise

1. Define in brief formal and informal groups.

   [Hint: Mainly two types of groups are present in organizations: Formal Groups created by deliberate sanction of management to meet certain official requirement and Informal Groups that are created because of the operation of the social and psychological factors at the workplace]

2. Explain the term group thinking.

   [Hint: Groupthink is the tendency of group members to seek agreement solely for agreement’s sake. A group gripped by groupthink fails to be creative, explore alternative solutions, problems, or concerns in an effort to present a united or cohesive front to outsiders. Group members must question themselves and their actions to ensure high-quality decision making.]
